

Copper Country Guatemala Accompaniment Project

CCGAP presents
Hilly McGahan

Hilly McGahan served for a year as an accompanier sponsored by the Copper Country Guatemala Accompaniment Project. She lived with Mayan people like Alejandro, below, who are resisting the destruction of their homelands by corporate interests. The public is invited to hear Hilly share some of her experiences.

Alejandro Che Paau's home is slated to be under water by 2013. His village is one of 18 communities slated to be inundated by a 3-square-mile reservoir behind the nation's second-largest hydroelectric project—the Xalala Dam. Come and hear Hilly tell his story.
